Ladies and Gentlemen,

The programme of plays for the next two months has now been completed and copies are available in the foyer. We hope that you will think that we have provided an interesting and varied selection of comedy, thrills and romance. 'Each man to his taste' is an old adage and you will appreciate the problems we have in finding thirty plays each season that we hope will appeal to the majority of our audiences. We would welcome your help in this matter so if you have a play which you would particularly like us to do and which you think would be popular, please write it on a slip of paper and hand it in at the box office. We promise that we will carefully consider all your suggestions but please bear in mind the limitations with regard to stage and number of players under which we have to work and don't ask for that marvellous spectacular you once saw at Drury Lane!

Next week we have a very fine play for you, THE LATE EDWINA BLACK. It is not only a very good mystery but also a fascinating study of some very diverse characters as they are revealed in a period of acute strain giving our company a real opportunity to show their worth.
