“WAIT UNTIL DARK”

by FREDERICK KNOTT

This is probably the biggest thriller success since “THE MOUSETRAP.” It had long runs on Broadway and in the West End and is currently being seen all over the world. Audrey Hepburn has just completed the Hollywood film version.

The intricate plot concerns a consignment of heroin, which has been hidden inside a doll. The doll turns up in the flat of Susy Henderson, a blind girl, and she becomes the victim of three crooks intent on getting the doll back. The most gripping scenes involve Susy and Roatt, a master criminal and murderer, when Susy uses her superior knowledge of the dark to try to outwit him. An evening of unrivalled excitement and suspense—don't miss it!

JENNY OULTON will play Susy with JOHN HUGHES as Roatt, MICHAEL COTTERILL as her husband, NADINE HANWELL as a resourceful neighbour and ALEX LEPPARD and LOUIS CABOT as two of the gang. The production will be by LESLIE LAWTON and the set will be designed by JESSICA GWYNNE, who had a recent West End success with her designs for the revival of “A Woman of No Importance.”
